

How KIOXIA Europe GmbH manages the Coronavirus (COVID-19) situation

Protecting the health of our employees is our first priority.

During these challenging times we continue to do everything to secure the health and well-being of our employees while keeping our business running, delivering our products and providing our services to all of our partners and customers as good as possible under this circumstances.

We have taken several measures to care for our direct and indirect workforce and to ensure business continues throughout the developing situation. We have enacted specific safety policies, including the cancellation of internal and business travel and all of our employees are working virtually from home.

As the situation is constantly evolving, we will continue to monitor daily news and governments' update and their latest decisions.

We keep our employees regularly informed to ensure a high level of safety.
